ENGLISH TO SOURASHTRA DICTIONARY.

I am glad to inform you that a new feature "Translate English to Sourashtra" has been added in Sourashtra Dictionary website www.sourashtradictionary.com

This feature is yet another way to enhance the Sourashtra vocabulary knowledge in additions to existing features like "Quick List", "Search" and "Alphabets". It is a work in progress module and currently words starting with A, B, C and D only are available. I thought of completing all the words, starting from A to Z, but then found that it is going to take months before I finish. So, decided to go by Agile model and launch as soon as considerable number of words are ready. This will also help to make course corrections on the fly, based on the usage & feedback.

The architect behind Translation is as follows :

1. About 75% of the words come from words that are currently used by almost all, including younger generation (Example - Coke : kholche, colander - puttalu thetto). This includes some of the words which may sound like Tamil, but found in Sanskrit too. Example Tower - gobur in Sourashtra. goburam in Tamil and gopur in Sanskrit. So, when a word has root both in Tamil and Sanskrit I have retained them in its current form as it is. Similarly, many words like gotho, gothi, addam, aththam, chabo, gosuruttu etc., are from Telugu. As we lived around 300 years in Vijanagaram before moving to Madurai many words from Telugu got mingled with Sourashtra. Such words are also retained as it is while translating.
2. About 5% of the words were picked up from old aged people (aged 75+). (Example - Dove : keuthu, Some call it kokkurkailo as well)

3. About 5% of the words were picked up from Sourashtra texts such as Sourashtra Bodhano (1900), Sourashtra Bhasha Vallari (1975), Aji Sange kheni kheto. ( Example - Bundle : ghentharo)
4. About 5% of the words, not available with the above 3 categories, were picked up from Marathi, the reason being similarity between Sourashtri and Marathi (Example - Broadcast : prasaarano). Though we migrated from Somnath, which is in Gujarath today, our language Sourashtra is nowhere close to Gujarathi but very close to Marathi. Some examples are Sand - valu in Sourashtra, vaalu in Marathi, similarly Dip - butni in Sou, butvine in Marathi, Knot - gaat in Sou, gaat in Marathi too. We can say about 40% of the words are almost similar between Sourashtri and Marathi.
5. About 5% of the words, not available with the above 4 categories, were picked up from Sanskrit. Example - Autonomous : swaya nirvaaha. This is to be in align with other Sanskrit based Indian Languages as Sourashtra is also Sanskrit based to a great extent
6. Finally, about 5% of the words were coined by me as no equivalent words are available in all the above category. Example - Cabbage - baanugobi I have coined this from phoolugobi which means Cauliflower. Similarly, Cigarette - dhoompaan valti. I tried with multiple words like dhoompaan vatthi, dhoompaan phuvani, dhoompaan phunali but found dhoompaan valti is more opt. Likewise, every word has been carefully analyzed and translated, the reason why it is time consuming. Basically, the objective is to enrich Sourashtra Vocabulary and at the same time maintain its original form without much deviation.

T.M. SOUNDARARAJAN

by Sachi Sri Kantha

Poets or lyricists provide the substance to their poem or lyrics. But, it is the singer's voice (and to an equal extent the music director or the one who arranges the score) who offers the form for those poems or lyrics. Good examples were the poems of Subramanya Bharathi (1882-1921), the foremost Tamil poet of the 20th century. His verses had substance. But, they were not popular during his lifetime and he died in penury. Only after the Tamil movies came to adopt Bharathi's compositions in 1948, his poems were made popular by the singers who provided the form.

If a Tamilian is asked to name a singer of Tamil songs, Tuguluva Meenatchi Iyengar Soundararajan (1922-2013, popularly known as TMS among Tamils) is the name which springs in the mind of millions of Tamils. Thanks to his long life, TMS invigorated, entertained and soothed three generations of music fans. His death on May 25th Saturday generated numerous elegies to him in the media.

Majestic Quartet

Rather than repeating what had been already presented by others, in this remembrance feature, I make an attempt to compare the career of TMS, with that of his three equally adept contemporaries, namely Tiruchi S. Loganathan, Chidambaram S. Jayaraman and Sirkazhi S. Govindarajan. These three along with TMS forms the Majestic Quartet of Tamil movie playback singers. I present a PDF table which I have compiled for this occasion. I provide these details for four reasons. First, other three (Loganathan, Jayaraman and Govindarajan) had died before internet's emergence and details about their illustrious musical careers are not readily available. Secondly, if not for the competence and rivalry offered by these three, TMS couldn't have blossomed and reached the top. Vamanan, a biographer of TMS, had reported that it was the adamant suggestion of Tiruchi Loganathan not to sing songs at a rate lower than 500 rupees per song for the Thooku Thooki (1954) movie that opened the path for TMS to offer his 'voice' for Sivaji Ganesan, the hero. Even Sivaji Ganesan had then grumbled that the producers had arranged a lesser known guy for this movie to sing his songs, rather than opting for Jayaraman Pillai who had contributed to his success as the hero in his debut Parasakthi (1952) movie. Thirdly, all four singers by their enchanting styles in diction and delivery brought to life the poems of poet Bharathi's substance.

This is not merely Tamil jingoism. But, the Tamil diction of some non-Tamilian singers (especially Ghantasala) leaves much to be desired. As such, I have doubt that other non-Tamilian playback singers could have done justice to poet Bharathi's poems apart from this quartet. Last but not the least, for reasons known only to the authors and contributors on Tamil cinema, the authentic Encyclopedia of Indian Cinema (1999), this majestic quartet of singers have been ignored without any entries on them. Rather, non-Tamilians who had contributed to playback singing for Tamil movies such as S.P. Balasubramanyam, Ghantasala, and K.J. Yesudas do have entries.

TMS was a Madurai native, though unlike the other three his native place name was not tagged to his name.

Other three were identified by their native places. What is common for all four among the majestic quartet was that, they were from historically recognized Hindu temple towns. In tonal quality of their voices, all four were blessed with majesty, individuality and esthetic quality. In my subjective evaluation, I offer the following distinction. Tiruchi Loganathan (the senior most among the four) had a voice like that of a trumpet. Chidambaram Jayaraman had an unusual tremolo voice. The voice of TMS was that of a bugle. Sirkazhi Govindarajan (the junior most among the four) had a voice like that of a ringing bell.

Rasas

Ancient Hindu performing arts recognize eight rasas. A rasa (Sanskrit term, which literally means 'juice' or 'essence') offers the emotional focus for an art form like song, dance and acting. These eight rasas are,

Srngaram (love)	Hasyam (mirth)
Raudram (fury)	Karunyam (compassion, pathos)
Bibhatsam (disgust)	Bhayanakam (horror)
Viram (heroic)	Adbhutam (wonder)

Though each of the four singers of this majestic quartet was able to express these eight rasas adeptly in any number of songs they have sung, among their fans each singer seems to have gained a speciality status in specific rasas. For example, Chidambaram Jayaraman (because of his tremolo voice) came to depict karunyam (pathos) and bibhatsam (disgust) passionately. Sirkazhi Govindarajan's bell-like voice also was specialized for karunyam as well as hasyam (mirth). Tiruchi Loganathan's trumpet like voice was more suited for bhayanakam (horror) and raudram (fury). The bugle voice of TMS was great for srngaram (love) and viram (heroic).

TMS made his debut for a successful MGR movie in 1950 – Manthiri Kumari (The Minister's Daughter), scripted by M. Karunanidhi. He delivered a powerful rendition of a meaningful song, 'Annamidda Veetile Kannakol Saathave – Ennam konda Pavikal Mannai Poha Nerume'

Siyamantaka Mani

The Saurashtra princely states formed the United States of Saurashtra. It was a self-governed state, not subject to British rule during the British period. Dwarka, ruled by Lord Krishna, was one of the areas under his control. Jambavati Cave is located at a distance of 20 km from Dwarka.

In this cave Jambavan lived with his family. Jambavan Krishnavatara, who had assisted Rama in Ramavatara, went to war with him. The reason for this is the "glowing bell" in the dark called "Siyamantaka Mani". It was rumored that Krishna had hijacked it. To alleviate this scandal, Krishna wandered in search of Siyamantaka Mani. It was hanging in the cradle of Jambavan's baby in Jambavan cave.

Archaeological Survey of India (Government of Saurashtra) and is currently controlled by the Gujarat Archaeological Survey.

The news has been published in the November 2017 issue of "Saurashtra Social Voice" magazine from Trichy.

HUMAN-FOOD

No animal eats like humans. Each animal will have a food of its choice. If you catch a buffalo and leave it in the garden, it will eat only a certain grass. They will not continue to eat anything and everything. They will choose. They have certain feelings about food.

Human are completely lost. They have no sense of food.

Humans will eat anything, ever. In fact, you would never find anything that humans do not eat. In some places they eat ants.

In some places snakes are eaten. In some places dogs are eaten. Humans eat everything.

Crazy human. He does not know what echoes with his body. Know the absence. He is completely confused.

Human should be vegetarian by nature. The reason is that the whole body was created for vegetarians. Every scientist agrees on one thing. The whole structure of the human body shows that he should not be inanimate.

Human came from apes. Apes are vegetarian. Pure vegetarian. Darwin's truth is that human must be a pure vegetarian. Now there are ways to see if some animals are vegetarian or non-vegetarian. It depends on the Intestine. Depending on the length of the Intestine. Non-vegetarian animals have small intestines. Tigers and lions have small intestines. That's because meat is an already digested food. It does not require a long time for digestion. The animal does the digestive work.

Now you are going to eat the meat. It was already digested. No need for large intestine.

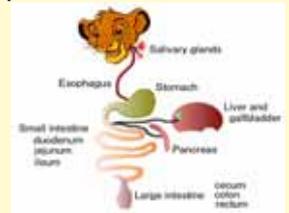

The longest intestines in human. i.e. man is vegetarian. Need a long digestion, in which there will be a lot of junk. You have to throw them away.

The human is not non-vegetarian. Yet he continues to eat meat. The load is loaded onto the body. The great meditators - Buddha, Mahavira - they have emphasized this fact. Not by the principle of nonviolence. It is secondary. But if you want to move on to truly deep meditation, your body needs to be weightless. To move naturally. The burden must be lifted from your body. Excess weight on the body due to non-vegetarian diet.

Notice what happens when you eat meat. You kill an animal. What happens when you kill an animal? No one wants to be killed. Life is precious for every one. No animal dies willingly and automatically. If someone kills you, you not willing to die. A lion leaps upon you and takes you. What is on your mind?

The same is true if you kill a lion. Pain, fear, death, sadness, anxiety, anger, violence, sadness, everything will happen to that animal. Violence, pain, and death spread throughout its body.

The body's glands expel toxins. The reason is that the animal dies involuntarily. Then you eat its meat. The meat contains all the venom that the animal excreted. That whole force is poison. Then that toxin is loaded into your body.

The meat you eat belongs to an animal body. There is a specific reason for that. There was a certain kind of feeling in that animal body. You are on a slightly higher platform from that animal sense. When you eat the meat of that beast, you come to the lower ground. Then there is a gap between your body and your senses. A tension arises. A mental anguish arises.

One should eat only what is natural. Whatever is natural to you. Eat as many fruits, nuts, and vegetables as possible. The dirt in it is that you can never eat more than you need. What is natural will give you a satisfaction. It will give a fulfillment to the body. It will give you a concentration.

The Way to Happiness

There are a thousand books to search for success. Where to go to seek happiness? Isn't it something that has to blossom from the inside out? Is there any way (s) we can make our life happier?

A popular book with these questions in mind is The Way to Happiness.

Written by Ron Hubbard of England, the book has been published in millions of copies to date. Translated into 70 languages and listed in the Guinness Book of Records.

The specialty of the book 'The way to happiness' is the 21 methods that are expanded in it. Author Ron Hubbard says, "Realizing these things and starting to follow them is the foundation of true happiness."

Here are a few simple formulas he puts forward as "the way to happiness":

- ⊙ First, look at the body, the picture only if there is a wall.
- ⊙ Don't just look for instant happiness, practice mindfulness by thinking of the consequences.
- ⊙ Be loyal to your relationships, friends, and business associates.
- ⊙ No matter your age, spend time with children.
- ⊙ Evaluate parents. Do what they need to do.
- ⊙ Assure yourself that "I will be a good role model for others".
- ⊙ No matter how bitter the truth is, accept it.
- ⊙ Do not kill anyone, even with words!
- ⊙ Don't do anything illegal, so no matter how much profit you make!
- ⊙ Start thinking about what you can do to bring about a balance in society without prejudice.
- ⊙ When a person does good, do not ruin his effort by saying something.
- ⊙ It is your responsibility to protect your environment.
- ⊙ Do not steal.
- ⊙ Be worthy of everyone's trust.
- ⊙ Do not break your word.
- ⊙ Do not believe anyone who says, "It is good to be idle."
- ⊙ Education is endless and you have to live as a student at all times!
- ⊙ Respect the religious feelings of others and do not make fun of them.
- ⊙ Do not do to others what you think they should not do to you.
- ⊙ In the same way, treat them the way you think they should treat you.
- ⊙ This world is full of resources, give. Because we can't give a damn when we go

OMEN AND SCIENCE

The ancestors believed that it would not be good if the cat came across while going outside. But corporate science companies convinced us that it was wrong. The result is that now we not only see how the cat came across.

Do you know what they are doing by changing us like this ...? Read more. It is the practice of the United States to place spy satellites on China to secretly monitor China.

When it did so a few years ago the satellites came to a standstill for a minute. Despite repeated attempts, the same thing happened. Couldn't fix it at all. Well below that they explored what is being done like that in China. There was a big shock waiting for them.

There was no town there. It is a great forest. There was a temple in the middle of that forest. Upon further inspection it was discovered that it was the most famous cat temple in China. They concluded that the radiation emitted from the catwalk should keep the satellites at bay. They immediately bought the cats and put them in a NASA lab and began to study them. NASA's sophisticated equipment filmed the emission of special electromagnetic waves from a cat's tail. The wavelength of those rays changed instantly when looking at humans. Scientists have gone to great lengths to learn that dangerous gamma rays are emitted, especially when cats cross the threshold. These gamma rays are powerful enough to confuse and endanger human thinking. This is why our ancestors used to say that if a cat comes across it, it will not be understood. None of our ancestors were fools.

WHAT IS MATURITY OF MIND ?

Correcting ourselves without trying to correct others. Accepting others with their short comings. Understanding the opinions of others from their perspectives.

Learning to leave what are to be avoided. Leaving the expectations from others. Doing whatever we do with peace of mind. Avoiding to prove our intelligence on others. Avoiding the status that others should accept our actions. Avoiding the comparisons of ourselves with others. Trying to keep our peace in our mind without worrying for anything. Understanding the difference between the basic needs and what we want. Reaching the status that happiness is not connected. Our life will be simple if only we practice 7 or 8 of the above Live your Life & Love your Life.
